

Week 12 Idaho Legislative Update for March 28 – April 1, 2022

The twelfth week of the Sixty-Sixth Idaho Legislature's Second Regular Session began with the House and Senate in recess as they awaited treatment of bills by Governor Little. The week ended with Adjournment "Sine Die" on Thursday afternoon, marking the end of a successful and well-run session on the 81st legislative day. The House adjourned at 1:47 PM and the Senate Adjourned at 2:43 PM, formally ending the 2022 Idaho Legislative Session.

This session was unique. They all are, but with so many long-time legislators retiring and a sense of order and process back, there is much to celebrate. Governor Little said "In all my years, I have never seen a more successful legislative session that produced so many positive results for the people we serve. We achieved what I never thought we could – 'the trifecta' – which is record tax relief, record education investments, and record transportation investments in one year."

We could not agree more. There are always wins and losses, rhetoric, bad press, challenges, and even disappointments during session, but the optimism and success of this year leaves us believing the future of Idaho is bright.

Before Sine Die, the House and Senate reviewed the actions taken by Governor Little. Several bills were vetoed during the recess and were accompanied by messages from the Governor. The vetoed legislation was discussed by the House and Senate as they caucused to decide what to do. The Senate chose to take up a veto override on SB1381, the Coronavirus Pause Act, but the override failed to receive 2/3 majority with a 21-14 vote.

Following the actions of the Senate, the House then went on the floor and worked through the orders. They chose not to attempt to override any vetoes and called for adjournment by voice vote with a small number of gallinaceous legislators voting "nay", and the vast majority of representatives voting enthusiastically "aye" to adjourn Sine Die. The Senate began farewell speeches and thanked their peers and the many people who help make the process a success and an hour later also adjourned Sine Die by voice vote.

All eyes now turn to the May Primary Elections on May 17, 2022. As we wrap up our work in the Capitol, we will be providing you with an additional summary of our success this year. We are also happy to offer advice on campaigns and elections as we work with trusted legislators we want to see return and as we invest our time and energy helping those who we believe will help Idaho move forward with vision, leadership and statesmanship. We will continue to work hard to represent your interests and seek to build a path to success for next year as we move forward with a very large class of new legislators next year.

We wish to thank the Idaho Legislature, the Senate, the House, the Majority and Minority Leadership, the many staff and secretaries, the Governor and his staff, and agency leaders and their staff. We work with all of them regularly throughout the year and we consider it a privilege to be able to know and trust them as we come together to make hard decisions and promote ideas to try to make Idaho a better place. We may not always agree, but we respect the process and the role we play in it on your behalf.

And to you, Thank you. Thank you again for your trust in us this session. On behalf of myself, our firm, Mike, Kieran, and Peyton, thank you for the privilege of working on your behalf and to achieve your goals. We count you as a part of our family and we are honored to be able to work on your behalf. Again, thank you, and congratulations on a successful 2022 Idaho legislative session.
